Allies in Change Counseling Center

Common Differences Between Anger Management and Batterer Intervention Programs

Anger Management	Batterer Intervention
-Anger is viewed as the primary problem.	-Abuse and control are viewed as the primary problem.
-Primary focus is on managing the emotion .	-Primary focus is on changing the beliefs and behavior .
-Abuse is seen as due to a loss of control .	-Abuse is seen as due to a taking of control .
-Intervention is short term (2-16 hours).	-Intervention is long term (40-100+ hours).
-Little attention given to the consequences.	-Repeated reminders of the damage caused.
-Generally no identified victim(s).	-There are identified victim(s) .
-No addressing of empathy for the victim.	-Empathy building for victim is common.
-There is no outreach to the victim.	-Referrals are provided to the victim.
-Little or no attention given to accountability.	-Accountability is paramount.
-Non-confrontational. Denial is not addressed.	-Confrontational. Denial is regularly targeted.
-Emotionally unprovocative.	-Emotionally demanding and intense at times.
-Gender is not considered to be an issue.	-Sexism and gender socialization are viewed as significant factors.
-It is viewed as a personal mental health issue.	-It is viewed as a social, societal issue.
-Intervention is confined to the specific service provided.	-This intervention is viewed as just one part of a larger coordinated community response.

Chris Huffine, Psy.D. 9/00