ANNUAL REPORT ON CHILDREN IN OUT-OF-HOME CARE
FOR CALENDAR YEAR 2010

Executive Summary

The Annual Report on Children in Out-of-Home Care is required by section 409.1685, Florida Statutes. The Department of Children and Families is required to report to the substantive committees of the Florida Legislature concerning the status of children in foster care and concerning the judicial review mandated by Part X of Chapter 39. This report must be submitted by May 1 of each year and include the following information for the prior calendar year:

- (1) The number of 6-month and annual judicial reviews completed during that period.
- (2) The number of children in foster care returned to a parent, guardian, or relative as a result of a 6-month or annual judicial review hearing during that period.
- (3) The number of termination of parental rights proceedings instituted during that period which shall include:
 - (a) The number of termination of parental rights proceedings initiated pursuant to former section 39.703, Florida Statutes; and
 - (b) The total number of terminations of parental rights ordered.
- (4) The number of foster care children placed for adoption during that period.

In the mid 1970s, the Florida Legislature established the original judicial review process that addressed permanency planning for children in out-of-home care. Federal guidelines for judicial reviews required reasonable efforts to prevent placement of children in out-of-home care and to assure timely reunification of children with their families.

By the late 1990s, federal and state judicial review requirements were amended to further strengthen timely permanency. In 2006 state statutes were amended again, emphasizing timely permanency. The mandate for judicial reviews, now found in section 39.701, Florida Statutes, was in response to concerns over an increasing number of children in foster care without a specific plan for securing timely permanency.

The term "foster care" used in Florida Statutes has a federal interpretation that includes all children in out-of-home care (both in licensed settings and in approved relative or non-relative settings). Therefore, this report provides current data regarding all children in out-of-home care, not only those who are in licensed foster care settings.

The legislature has established statutory requirements for achieving permanency for children in out-of-home care. The primary vehicle that guides permanency planning for children is a court-approved case plan. A case plan is developed for each child in out-of-home care within 60 days following the child's removal from his or her parental home. The case plan outlines the specific tasks and services for the child, the family, and the department deemed necessary to facilitate safe reunification. If reunification is not possible, an alternate permanency goal for the child may be termination of parental rights and subsequent adoptive placement.

Judicial reviews are hearings in the juvenile division of the Circuit Court conducted at mandated intervals to assess the progress of parents, staff, and others toward the permanency goal established for children in out-of-home care. Section 39.621, Florida Statutes, establishes five permanency goals: reunification, adoption, permanent guardianship of a dependent child under section 39.6221, permanent placement with a fit and willing relative under section 39.6231, and permanent placement in another planned permanent living arrangement under section 39.6241. At the judicial review hearing, the case plan is reviewed and may be amended by the court. Section 39.701, Florida Statutes, provides judges the option of returning the child to his or her family, continuing the child in out-of-home care, or initiating termination of parental rights proceedings. Time frames and judicial options are consistent with the federal Adoption and Safe Families Act.

Federal and state legislation require that a child's case plan be specific, goal-oriented, and time limited, so that children move through out-of-home placement and achieve permanency as quickly as possible. When it is apparent that a child cannot safely return to his or her parents, a petition for termination of parental rights may be filed. Once the petition is granted by the court, the child can legally be placed in a permanent adoptive placement.
